SIX MURDERED IN TWIN TRAGEDIES IN DIFFERENT CITIES

Husbands Slay Wives and Daughters in Each Case

Indianapolis, Ind., June 24—Police last night found three persons dead at 236 East McCarty Street. The dead:

William Carpenter, 55 years old.

Mrs. Ada Carpenter, 55, wife of William Carpenter.

Mrs. Grace McDonough, 35, daughter of Mrs. Carpenter.

Police said evidence indicated Carpenter shot his wife and step-daughter and then turned the revolver upon himself.

Mark, 8, and Helen, 10, children of Mrs. McDonough, were playing in the back yard at the time of the tragedy.

Mrs. Carpenter staggered from the front door of the home and called to her grandson and Ray Cavender, who was working across the street, to call police.

Before the police arrived and before she could tell of the shooting, Mrs. Carpenter died. She was shot in her right side.

Carpenter was found lying in the front room by the piano, with a bullet hole in his chin and head. His stepdaughter was found slumped in a chair in the dining room, with a wound in her head. The weapon contained five empty shells when found.

Neighbors were at a loss to give a motive. Carpenter had been in ill health, they said. Mrs. McDonough, a widow, and her two children came to her mother's home a few days ago from Detroit.

Pittsburgh, Penn., June 24—Crazed over his inability to find work Levi Sterner, coal miner, today killed his wife and his eleven-month-old daughter and then shot himself to death at the home of his parents in West Newton, near here.

Mrs. Sterner was nursing the babe at the time of the shooting, the bullet which killed her passing through her body and lodging in the child's brain. A second shot was fired into the child's head before Sterner turned the gun upon himself.

Returning home last night, after a futile search for work, relatives told police that Sterner appeared to be unusually despondent. The family was aroused early today by shots in the room occupied by Sterner and his wife. Mrs. Sterner was found dead and the husband and babe died a short time later.

According to the lads, they left home on a hike to "see the world." They finally landed on the adjoining farms of Harry Beck and Eugene Smith, near Tiffin, O., and had been working there for two days when the farmers, attracted by stories in Ohio papers offering a reward of $5,000 for word of the missing boys, wired Harwood in Bronxville.

Harwood arrived at Tiffin and brought both boys here. They left yesterday aboard a New York bound train.

PUBLIC FORGETTING DISABLED VETERANS SPEAKER DECLARES

Enthusiasm Cooled He Says
—24,000 Died Since
Armistice

Omaha, Neb., June 24—Public enthusiasm toward the veterans of the World War has perceptibly cooled since the armistice, Thomas Kirby, legislative agent of the Disabled American Veterans, charged here today at the annual meeting of the organization.

This feeling, he said, has not been limited to any class or any section, but has spread from coast to coast and from border to border.

Kirby produced figures showing that 6,280 Americans were killed and 265,690 were wounded in action in the World War.

"While these are the figures of war, the statistics of peace are most impressive, since during the last 12 months 4,212 former service men have died from war disabilities; bringing up the total to more than 24,000 who, since the armistice, have answered the last roll call," Kirby said. "This means that approximately half as many have died from service scars as were killed on the field of battle."

Kirby asserted that unscrupulous promoters are "prowling around the country, raising funds from well-meaning citizens who have felt that they were contributing to the relief of men wounded in the great war." Much of this money only enriched the men who sought to prey against the interests of the veterans, he said.

FLOODS SEVERE

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE INCREASING FAST STEEL OFFICIAL TELLS CONVENTION

James A. Farrell Sounds Optimistic Note at Trade Meeting—Diversified Commerce And Rejuvenated Europe Aiding Exports.

Seattle, Wash., June 24—The foreign trade of the United States has grown to enormous proportions and promises to exceed the record mark of $8,200,000,000 made last year, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, told delegates from all over the world assembled here today at the opening of the National Foreign Trade Convention.

In a keynote speech on "The Foreign Trade Outlook," he declared that there has been a distinct improvement in European industry, and predicted a period of great prosperity for American manufacturers.

"The foreign trade of the United States, whether considered in terms of value or of volume, has grown to substantial proportions," Farrell said. "The aggregate value of our exports and imports for the calendar year 1924 was more than $8,200,000,000, a sum of which, even after war-time experience with large figures is difficult to appraise.

The volume of this colossal foreign trade was more than 93,160,000 tons of 2,240 pounds.

There is nothing like this foreign trade of last year in the history of the United States. It surpassed all records in volume; but this year gives promise of exceeding it.

"There are several considerations which seem to sustain this belief," Farrell said. "Before the war a small number of items comprised the great bulk of exports. Twenty different kinds of commodities then furnished approximately 90 per cent of our sales to foreign countries. In 1924, however, the first hundred items in our list of exports constituted only 87.75 per cent of the total. Of these one hundred items, 72 contributed less than 1 per cent each.

"This widely diversified commerce is shared by a much larger number of firms than before 1914. The number of traders of all nationalities in competitive markets has decreased since the abnormal activity which followed the war, but there is today no market where standard American manufactures are not to be found.

The United States has the productive capacity to maintain a considerably larger overseas commerce than it now enjoys, Farrell asserted. This he declared, was one of the chief factors influencing Americans toward foreign trade.

"If we are to have our productive

New York, June 24—No longer will New Yorkers witness the graceful lines of Wincoma, the speedy yacht of August Heckscher, zinc king, financier, realtor and philanthropist. Mr. Heckscher has sold his magnificent estate at Huntington, Long Island—also known as Wincoma—and his speedy yacht was thrown into the deal.

It is said that Mr. Heckscher, who used his yacht in daily trips from Long Island to New York City, figured the cost of a round trip at $500. That sealed the boat's fate. The yacht is reputed to have cost Mr. Heckscher more than $100,000.

William Gormley, who is identified with Roy Rainey, brother of the late Paul Rainey, African game hunter, purchased the Heckscher property and yacht. The yacht now is receiving a coat of paint and may be bought cheap by anyone who does not mind a commutation rate of say $5 a mile.

REQUEST WARSHIPS FOR PROTECTION OF NATIONALS MENACED

U. S. Sailors Man Refugee
Steamer—Ship Sent
By Portugal

Hong Kong, June 24—Two hundred Chinese were reported slain in the fighting off Sham-keen, the artificial island which forms the foreign settlement at Canton, according to advices here today.

British and French marines opened fire with machine guns when Chinese students, workers and soldiers parading on the Bund, fired on the island. The steamer Honan, bringing six hundred refugees from Shanghai, was expected to arrive at Hong Kong this afternoon. Bluejackets from the U. S. S. Ashgville are manning the steamer, which was pressed into service at Canton to carry whites out of the danger sectors.

Fighting was reported to have broken out at several places in Canton today, after the bloody encounter between the paraders and marine guards of Shanghai. Two of the foreign colony were killed—G. O. Pasquier, a French merchant and Arthur Edwards, a British customs official. Three foreigners were wounded.

Lisbon, June 24—Measures looking to the safety of the Portuguese community at Macao, China, to which the general strikes of Shanghai, Canton, and Hong Kong have spread, were under way today.

The ministerial council approved the sending of the cruiser Carval Hoaraujo to protect Portuguese interests.

Amoy China, June 24—American, British and Japanese consuls at this important port today requested their governments to send warships to protect their nationals, endangered by the spread of the general strike affecting, other large cities of south China.

Foreign women and children were preparing to evacuate the city. One American gunboat stationed here has left for Canton, where a violent clash was reported today.

CHAMBERLAIN WILL DEFEND SECURITY PACT IN COMMONS

Minister To Face Swarm of Political
Bees From Labor And
Liberals

London, June 24—Austen Chamberlain, British minister of foreign affairs, will face a swarm of political bees when he speaks in the house of commons tonight in defense of the security pact.

A combination of labor and liberal members plan to demand knowing why Britain should guarantee to protect France's western frontier from enemy attack.

Keen hostility to the pact will come to light when opposition members debate, it was predicted. Members were said to be determined to learn that verbal agreements entered into by Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Briand of France. It is likely Chamberlain will have to put these verbal agreements in writing, or he may have to revoke them.

Meanwhile, laborite members are opposing a vote of censure for the government due to the increase in unemployment. The coal crisis has developed political tension and the possibility of a strike has fanned the fires of political discontent.

Parliamentary circles candidly admitted the Baldwin government is facing a crisis.

"Debs" To Be Presented To
Royalty Will Cover Gowns
With Fur Coats

London, June 24—A temperature of sixty degrees and a general cold snap which England is weathering, brought consternation today to American girls and women and English debutantes, who are to be presented at court tomorrow night to King George and Queen Mary.

Thousands of dollars worth of summer gowns made especially for the occasion will be covered by fur wraps during the long two hour wait outside Buckingham palace. This will make it impossible for the usual admiring throngs of envious shopgirls to see this year the wonderful display of gowns.

The American girls and women to be introduced by Ambassador Houghton will be:

Miss Jean Elizabeth Baldwin, New Jersey; Miss Violet Burd Grubb, Burlington, N. J.; Miss Rosalie Evans, New York; Mrs. Cass Gilbert, New York and Ridgfield, Conn.; Mrs. H. A. Murray, Boston; Miss Florence Pratt, New York; Miss Helen Sheldon, London; Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell, New York and Washington; Miss Annie Laurie Warmack, St. Louis.

It cost this woman's husband $1,500 a month to sue for divorce. Mrs. Maude E. Malcolm, of Newtonville, Mass., won that amount in a separation action after her husband, a Boston business man, asked a divorce. She was formerly a Cambridge school teacher.

EMERGENCY FLEET CORPORATION GETS CONTROL OF SHIPS

Merchant Vessels Will Still Be
Operated By Shipping
Board However

Washington, June 24—The United States emergency fleet corporation today was vested with complete administrative control of the government's merchant ships. The U. S. shipping board will continue to operate, but largely as a regulatory body in giving formal approval to the actions of the fleet corporation.

The change thus effected is in accordance with the suggestion of President Coolidge for the reorganization of the merchant marine under the direction of Admiral Leigh Palmer, president of the fleet corporation.

Under the new operating plan, all ship sales will be handled solely by the fleet corporation and after bids are received and action taken upon them, the shipping board will have an opportunity to approve or reject the contracts.

The shipping board will be unable, under the present merchant marine act, to divest itself of any of the powers conferred by congress but will so far as it is possible, leave the management and operation of the merchant fleet to the fleet corporation. When the president's suggestion for this radical change of policy was first made it met with some opposition among members of the board, but his insistence finally caused the board to agree.

The president's action was taken following the visit of Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board to Detroit to offer 400 or more of the government's surplus ships to Henry Ford. Agreement has been reached by the shipping board as to the disposition now and these will be advertised for sale immediately by the fleet corporation.

Fix, of Cleveland, resumed deliberations at 9 o'clock this morning.

The jury took the case at 11:20 yesterday and continued to ballot until ten o'clock last night. Six men and six women constitute the panel.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur bases his strenuous objections to the low wave length radio equipment on the grounds of insecurity for the ships, planes and entire personnel. It is stated, especially the planes in getting compass bearings.

North Sydney, N. S. June 24—The MacMillan exploration ships, Peary and Bowdoin steamed into Sydney harbor for coal today. The Peary left Monegan island, Maine, ahead of the Bowdoin and reached here first. The flagship Bowdoin with Commander B. MacMillan aboard, failed to overtake the Peary.

WILBUR MAY ORDER NAVAL PLANES AND FLYERS TO RETURN

Failure To Use Navy Radio
Equipment May Wreck
Trip

Portland, Me., June 24—The Donald B. MacMillan Arctic expedition, now enroute to the far north, may be called off at the very portals of the frozen Arctic regions through an unexpected move on the part of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

The radio equipment of the MacMillan expedition is the cause of the controversy.

On orders of the secretary, the destroyer Putnam is speeding northward to Sydney N. S. today to overtake the MacMillan expedition anchored there. The destroyer had aboard a large quantity of naval radio equipment from the dismantled U. S. S. Florida.

Commander MacMillan flatly refused to accept navy radio equipment when it was delivered at Wiscasset, Maine last week.

The entire controversy, which threatens to upset the greatest scientific expedition sent into the Arctic by America, centers about the relative value of high and low wave length radio sending and receiving apparatus.

Unless Commander MacMillan is willing to substitute his present wireless equipment for that of the navy, Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd, in charge of navy amphibian planes with the expedition and all navy personnel aboard the Bowdoin and Peary are ordered to return immediately to the United States.

Without the navy planes and the navy flyers this expedition as planned by MacMillan and his associates would be helpless and should the Wilbur order stand there is every possibility that the expedition will be called off.

MacMillan had left the naval wireless, equipment piled up on the wharf at Wiscasset when the Bowdoin and Peary sailed.

Soon after his return from his last expedition to the Arctic, Commander MacMillan announced that in the future he would use only low wave length radio equipment.

These sets are practically impervious to static which is extremely bad near the pole. On his last expedition the MacMillan party had standard navy equipment and as a result were out of communication with the outside world for weeks at a time.

Second to MacMillan in command of the Arctic expedition is Commander E. F. MacDonald, Chicago, multi-millionaire and interested in a radio corporation of Chicago. This radio company worked out the best standards for amateur manufacture of low wave length radio sets. In tests these low wave sets have never been manufactured commercially, it is understood.

Commander MacMillan and Commander MacDonald regarded the low wave sets as ideal for work in the Arctic and equipped their ships and the airplanes with them.

The navy department ordered the U. S. S. Florida's equipment sent to Wiscasset. Before the sailing of the expedition on Saturday and while the equipment was on the wharf, naval officials failed to deliver to Lieutenant Commander Byrd a sizzling message from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur ordering him either to install the naval radio instruments in the three seaplanes or return to Washington. For failure to see that this message reached Byrd, Rear Admiral Oe Steiger at Boston navy yard has been severely taken to task by Secretary Wilbur, it became known today.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur bases his strenuous objections to the low wave length radio equipment on the grounds of insecurity for the ships, planes and entire personnel. It is stated, especially the planes in getting compass bearings.

North Sydney, N. S. June 24—The MacMillan exploration ships, Peary and Bowdoin steamed into Sydney harbor for coal today. The Peary left Monegan island, Maine, ahead of the Bowdoin and reached here first. The flagship Bowdoin with Commander B. MacMillan aboard, failed to overtake the Peary.

Only Beating Will Dislodge It!

In every rug there is dirt which only beating will dislodge. This you can easily prove...

The heavy, sandy, sharp-edged grit which is carried in from the street on soles of shoes and scuffed off in walking, soon settles to the very bottom of the nap.

Sweeping will not dislodge this dirt, nor will air-suction alone. It is embedded! It must be shaken, vibrated loose, and only beating will do this. Prove it now!

There is no better way to convince yourself that your present cleaning methods are inadequate, than by making this test.

There is no better way to prove that you need a Hoover, for in addition to sweeping and air-cleaning, The Hoover beats.

*Make this test right now! Turn over a corner of a rug; with the handle of an ordinary table-knife, or something of equal weight, give the under or warp side 15 to 25 sharp taps, and watch the dirt dance out from the nap depths onto a piece of paper; feel the destructive character of this grit. This is the dirt only beating will dislodge.

Correct use of The Hoover causes this embedded dirt to be vibrated to the surface by the rapid, gentle beating of the Hoover brush, as powerful suction lifts the rug from the floor, and draws all the dirt into the dust-tight bag. Phone us today. Let us show you The Hoover in your own home.

MARRIAGE RITUAL CHANGES PLANNED BY EPISCOPALIANS

New York, June 24—The Fourth Report of the Joint Commission on Prayer Book Revision of the Episcopal Church, which has just been issued, recommends final action by the General Convention of the Church, meeting in New Orleans October 7-23, on the proposal to delete the word "obey" from its marriage service, as well as to strike out the frequently Pickwickian phrase in which the bridegroom endows the bride with all his "worldly goods."

The report also recommends that the proposed shortened form of the Ten Commandments for optional use by the clergy shall finally be approved by the Supreme Court of the Church as well as the elimination from the Book of Common Prayer of the injunction of the unbaptized, excommunicate and suicides from the rite of the burial service.

Numerous other changes in the Book of Common Prayer, but largely in the nature of Modernized phraseology and transposition, will also be submitted to this Forty-eighth Triennial General Convention of the Joint Commission, whose report is made public in anticipation of that gathering.

All of these proposed changes were approved after extended debate at the Episcopal General Convention which met in Portland, Oregon, in September, 1922. Church law provides, however, that amendments to the Book of Common Prayer shall be approved by two successive General Conventions. The fight for these reforms must be made all over again, therefore at the forthcoming New Orleans meeting.

PROMOTERS EXPLOIT PRESIDENT TO GAIN PERSONAL RETURNS

Washington, June 24—"Stand aside and let the Blank party pass in!" The scene is the White House Executive offices almost any day at noon, when hundreds file in to shake hands with President Coolidge. The "Blank party" is a group of organized tourists.

The "Blank" in question is a slender young man who draws down a salary from a big express company that organizes "paid tours" of Washington. He is an almost daily visitor at the White House, standing at the entrance to aid the police in weeding "ringers" out of his party.

Behind or ahead of Mr. Blank are similar parties of tourists, organized in like fashion by other concerns, notably two of the largest railroad companies in the East. Part of the lure that brought them to Washington was an assurance they would be received by the president.

Under existing regulations the White House is powerless to interfere with this commercialization of the presidential office. Any tourist armed with a written request from his Congressman may go through the private quarters of the White House and then shake hands with Mr. Coolidge.

ARRANGE TRIP. Knowing this, concerns that corral graduating classes and social organizations at so much per head and bring them to Washington for a three or four day sight-seeing trip—"all arrangements made"—see to it that the members of their parties write to their Congressmen in advance and get the necessary letters of introduction.

Thus duly accredited, they descend upon the Executive offices these hot days and make Mr. Coolidge shake hands with their tourists—thereby living up to the presences. On Wednesday with the temperature at 94, the president greeted 902, of whom 250 comprised a single "Blank party." On Thursday 658 were in line, Mr. Blank again contributing heavily.

And then there is another profitable White House concession—the panorama picture. If an important delegation calling at the Executive offices requests it, the president quite often will consent to pose with them for a picture. In addition to the legitimate news photographers, there is always on hand a commercial photographer with a panorama camera.

The presence of Mr. Coolidge in the picture enhances its value to a point that the photographer usually is able to dispose of one to nearly every member of the group, at from $1.50 to $3.00 per copy. On Thursday the president posed with 1,800 delegates to a convention. The size of the cash sale undoubtedly was tremendous.

Small wonder the President is seeking a haven of quiet in Massachusetts.

Her condition grew steadily worse although every effort was made to prolong her life.

At the time of her first illness, Miss Flagg was employed as bookkeeper in the offices of Drs. Reed Madden and Lawrence Shields. She enjoyed a wide acquaintance in the city and her death came as a shock to a large circle of friends.

She was an active member of the First U. P. Church, where she served as organist. She was also affiliated with the Young Ladies' Missionary Society and was treasurer of the Woman's Missionary Magazine, the national organ of that society. She was also a member of the Xenia Business and Professional Woman's Club.

MODISH MITZI—The Proper Way To Adjust a Hat

By JAY V. JAY

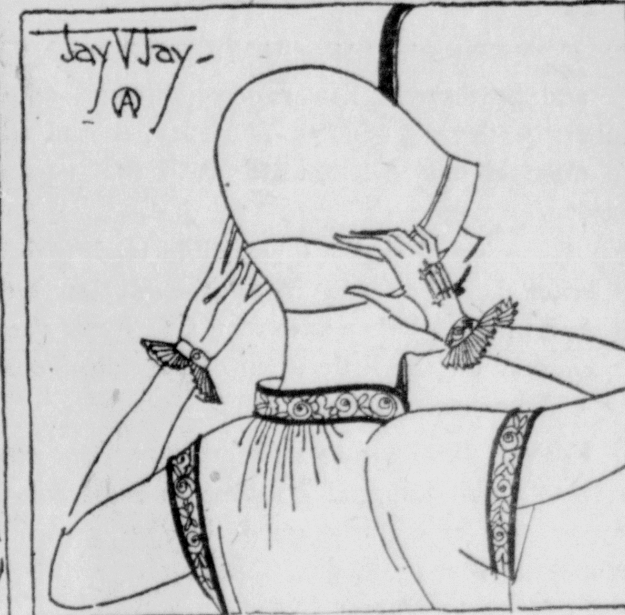

The proper way to adjust a hat is in such fashion as to display one's gloves. Notice, especially, the turned back cuff—a feature of the newest and smartest hand coverings. These gloves are trimmed with applique.

These are also trimmed with applique—colored flowers on a dark background. The cuffs on all gloves now, whether of fabric or leather, are very short and often flare back over the hand.

These are fabric also and are trimmed with a double line of stitching in the color of the glove. Their chief claim to notice, however, is the notched ruffle which is of bright colored print. Colored trimmings are good.

A little embroidered band of flowers makes a bracelet on these gloves and a pleated ruffle frills out most becomingly around a slender wrist. Any such little accentuation of one's good points is surely permissible.

LAWS.

EX-CONGRESSMAN CHARLES L. KNIGHT, Akron and Springfield newspaper publisher, addressing Wittenberg College graduates Thursday, scored what he termed officialdom's attempt to curb the natural rights of citizens.

He referred to the Ohio Bible reading bill, vetoed by Governor Donahey and the anti-evolution bill which has resulted in a trial that is expected to focus the attention of the country on the little town of Dayton, Tenn., where the law will be first tested.

If these laws are not examples of the effort of legislators to adopt imperial gestures in regard to government, they are at least fairly good illustrations of the type of law-making that is flooding this country with statutes which are a burden to enforce if not an actual joke.

Arthur Train, the New York attorney and fiction writer, some time ago prepared an interesting article citing some of the laws that might easily be called ridiculous. His examples, bound to cause mirth, must still be taken more seriously because they represent the profound thought of assemblies of lawmakers elected by the people to provide sensible statutes.

Among them was the law in one Western state that two trains, approaching each other on tracks running at right angles, must both stop and neither must proceed until the other has gone on. Still another was the law that required hotel keepers to change the bed linen after the departure of each guest but making no provision for the unfortunate guest who might be occupying a room for one or more years.

Others of his examples took in the laws that are obsolete but had not at that time been repealed, such as the Los Angeles statute forbidding trolley car motormen from shooting rabbits from the car vestibules and the other western state law which forbade two people taking a bath in the same bathtub at the same time.

Speaking of bath tubs, it might be recalled that they are practically modern, but the introduction of this entirely essential piece of household equipment was the occasion for a burst of "anti" laws that almost prevented the bath tub from becoming popular.

With these conditions in mind, we are now prepared to vote without further investigation, for the legislative candidate who will vote "no" on everything that comes up unless it is a bill designed to wipe off the statue books a number of meaningless and purposeless laws that now clutter up the law books. A legislature pledged to pass no new laws will at least be harmless.

La FOLLETTE.

SENATOR ROBERT M. La FOLLETTE, of Wisconsin, who died in Washington, had many political enemies. But they were the type of enemies who arrayed themselves against him because of his political tenets and not because of personal animosity.

La Follette's political creed may have disagreed with that of the majority, as evidence by his lack of support in the November election last year, but there are none of his enemies who would say that he had not unswerving faith in his ideals, even though those ideals placed him irrevocably with the minority.

There are none to say he was not frank, earnest, open and above-board in his dealings, that he did not fight squarely and straight from the shoulder, nor with the tenacity and fervor of purpose that belied the fact that he knew he was battling for a lost cause.

There was this about Senator La Follette that brought him respect and admiration and the other human qualities that prove, at least after death, that such a life has not been in vain.

WHEAT.

THE American wheat crop will be the shortest this year that it has since the war summer of 1917, reports the federal department of agriculture.

However, the department goes on to say, there will be sufficient wheat for domestic needs, the short crop necessitating the curtailing of exporting this year.

It has been a considerably fortunate thing for Europe that America has been able to raise more wheat than it consumes and if the short crop here will be felt in Europe, the situation may be grave.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guost

UBLY AND LUM
On the road to Pointe Aux Barques,
Sitting in the Thumb,
Is a narrow sign which marks
Roads to Uby and to Lum;
And I think as I go by
I must visit them some day,
Lum is toward the western sky
Uby can't be far away.

Uby has a gurgling name
Like the bubbling of a spring
And I wonder whence it came,
Lum is quite another thing,
And I chuckle soft and low

At those arrows, cold and dumb,
Showing me the way to go
On to Uby or to Lum.

Well I know, some summer day,
As that arrow points I'll turn
And go journeying down the way
Where the lights of Uby burn;
For those names are holding me
Like a tune the minstrels strum,
And I wonder what can be
In the little town of Lum.

So this ditty now I sing
To those towns of Michigan,
Whose quaint names have such a ring
They've entranced this city man.
Lovely Uby, very soon
As the arrow points I'll come,
And before another June
I must surely visit Lum.

Last week I wrote about mixing a cake containing butter. Today I am going to deal with cakes which contain no butter—plain Sponge Cake, White Sponge (or "Angel") Cake and Sunshine Cake.

Sponge Cake: Break three eggs into a bowl (do not separate) and then beat till light and creamy. Add gradually, one cup of granulated sugar and continue beating till thick and light colored (this will take five minutes of beating.) Next add four tablespoons of cold water, beat again, and stir in one cup of bread flour which has been previously sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat vigorously for several minutes, flavor with one half teaspoon of vanilla extract, beat again, and turn the batter into a loaf cake pan to bake in a moderate oven from 30 to 40 minutes.

White Sponge or Angel Cake: Beat five egg-whites to a froth, then add one half teaspoon of cream of tartar, and continue beating till very stiff and dry.

POTAGE GENIN

Paris, June 24—Potage genin is one of the best French soups.

Put into a casserole three-fifths pound of white beans which have been previously soaked and water necessary for the soup. Add a few leeks, celery and onions, all cut into rather large pieces; then add one half pint of tomato puree and spices. After cooking pass through a sieve and add sorrel, chopped well and browned in butter. Finish off the soup with a little chopped parsley.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood cells—the spark that renews your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

SENTIMENT

Recently I witnessed the 500 mile automobile race at Indianapolis. It was a thrilling contest into which great skill, courage, unusual daring and character entered.

A young man by the name of Ralph de Paolo, won. I went around and looked the little car after the race, and strapped securely to the two front springs were two tiny shoes once worn by the driver's 21 month old child!

Sentiment had also won.

For exactly 200 laps that car had sped by, and for 150 or better, the father of that pair of shoes had piloted the race.

I was in a beautiful home the other day. Millions of dollars represented the wealth of its owner. There were great gardens, lakes, natural springs, winding walks and trees that buried you in a silent vista of beauty. I was shown through rooms that were the expression of the wood carver's art, exquisite and gorgeous in display. And there was a sun parlor that absorbed the rays of the sun as they touched the beautiful marble that rested in walls, floors and statues.

But all this was far secondary to the few precious trinkets and keepsakes that the mother showed me representing the talent of her daughter when she was a small child. In them was her love.

Money may build palaces but it cannot buy love. Nor can it replace it.

And there is no wealth in this world that has any value at all that does not have beneath it the sentiment of love and unselfishness.

Such wealth is a blessing wherever it is found. It breathes beauty.

I keep thinking about that tiny pair of baby shoes. And I am sure that the winner of that great race would sooner part with the $40,000 he won than he would with that touch of sentiment that inspired him to win.

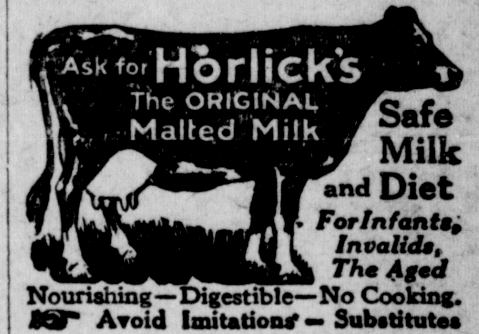

Sentiment is at the core of all the greatness in this world.

Heavy Prize Money for Poets!

$1,000,000.00

Given Away!

TIME LIMIT

There's a magazine run by a wild man up in Chicago which is giving away $500 a week to these "Who can fill in the Last Line," so in order to keep my bosses in good condition with the readers I am going to swing a few limericks at the public and see what happens.

The prizes given will be as follows:

First Prize donated by Mr. McCallister, the Hardware Man.

Second Prize donated by Mr. Kohl, the tire man.

Third Prize donated by Mr. Sayre, the druggist.

My three bosses and Mr. Higgins, (editor) are to be the judges. I don't want any quarrels but you'll notice that I've got the deciding vote on this limerick stunt and what I say is to GO! Here's the limericks:—

There's a man living up in Alberta
Who at spitting is some little squirt
He can take a big chew
And his face would turn blue
(fill in)

A man with a cast in his eye
Wore his Adams Apple quite high
And his whiskers ran wild
At his looks you'd have smiled
(fill in)

At Cross Word Puzzles he shone
Though the rest of his head was pure bone
And he ate with his knife
And was bossed by his wife
(fill in)

These three limericks were composed by my three bosses, Mr. McCallister, Mr. Kohl and Doc Sayre, and are what are considered the very finest sort of limericks obtainable.

SECRETS!

The right answers to these limericks are a secret naturally and will not be divulged until you see the answers published in next week's Gazette and Republican.

Yours truly,

Shorly

P. S. I have not had much to do with Mr. Higgins, editor of the Gazette and Republican this week, so there's no news of him in this issue. He'll probably make some double meaning remark to me before the week is out and if he does, I'll tell you in the next issue.

P. S. The million dollar prize money is apple sauce. It's put in the headline to attract attention. The other prizes are real.

LOOP GAMES TO BE RESUMED FRIDAY

The regular schedule in the Saturday Afternoon Industrial League will be resumed Friday at Washington Park, with a bargain bill for fans.

The Tiltons' "33" nine will oppose the Hooven and Allison team in the first half of the twin bill with the leading R. A. Kelly team playing the Pennsylvania Railroaders in the second game.

The four teams in the league are now one full game behind schedule as a result of the postponement of last week's games. The Tiltons have a game with the Kellys and the Penns have a postponed game with the H. and A. team.

These games will be played off at an early date, it is said, to keep abreast with the schedule.

The Kelly nine continues to lead the league with a lead of two full games over the nearest contenders, the Hooven and Allison aggregation.

Not Possible To Classify

A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepys, Jr.-Out early, a trick out of the ordinary of late, and hired an ill-favored horse, which I would not ride for fear of hurt. To my tailor to try my new suit with red cheeks, the first of fine quality that ever I had; and had a fit, nearly, to find the bottom of the trousers made big, as the fashion is with the young bloods, and my mind in mighty disorder whether to take them or no, finally leaving orders to make them over.

Troubled whether to grow a mustache, finding that one does become me mightily. Going forth I bought a gift or two for some old cronies and a pair of shoes to ease my bunions which do give me great pain. Vexed this day with my watchmaker who long ago promised to set my timepiece in running order, but it not done yet.

Anon walked into the country toward Oldtown with my dog, and there played the fool with a farmer boy; trying to smoke a skunk out of a hole, but after waiting an hour or more, found it had gone out of another hole. And then the two tried the sport of fighting a hornet's nest, I getting stung.

In the evening to the Bijou theatre to see a good plot and fell to talking with a woman, not very handsome, but jolly, who poked fun at a man whom we laughingly referred to as a salesman and who asks for business because he fears he will lose his job if he doesn't get it, saying he must get twice as much as his competitor, very funny.

Thence presently home, meeting Milt McKay on the way and got to discussing city ordinances which have to do with curfews and the like. And so late to bed, too tired for prayers.

"Export prices, however, are determined by competition in foreign markets. Therefore it behooves us to keep our production costs at the lowest possible level through resourcefulness in the use of mechanical devices, in the utilization of every possible improvement in facilities for production and economy in overseas distribution.

"Europe will in the nature of things regain a portion of her former trade in neutral markets as soon as industry becomes reconstructed in the nations of that continent," Farrell predicted. "There are already signs that the manufacturers of Europe are renewing their former trade affiliations," he said.

"Europe is steadily growing into a better condition. Every year since the signing of the armistice there has been distinct improvement. In most European countries the people have gone back energetically to work. The Russian experiment with communism is still slowly working out its disastrous course, but in practically all other countries, with the possible exception of Great Britain, where unemployment continues to be a serious problem, the improvement is marked.

"One result of our change in economic status from a debtor to a creditor nation is the increased readiness of American capital to seek or accept investment abroad. We are all familiar with the extent of foreign loans placed in this country in recent months. The proceeds of such loans go abroad, as a general rule, either in shipments of gold or as exports of merchandise, including raw materials. Unquestionably the large excess of our merchandise exports over imports last year represented in great part foreign loans placed here. Such loans may, and often do, mean continued foreign trade as well as these immediate exports.

"I think we have many reasons for confidence," Farrell concluded. "Chief among them is the fact that the whole world is growing, its production is increasing, and that means increased buying power. International trade grows as the world grows, and we may reasonably count upon getting our share."

MAY NOT NAME MAYOR AT COMMISSION MEET

While admitting the possibility of the appointment of a mayor for Xenia at the regular City Commission meeting Thursday night at the City Hall, city officials say the action may not be taken at this time.

The mayor vacancy was caused by the resignation of George E. Hudson, who has held the offices of City Commissioner and Mayor.

The vacancy on the commission was immediately filled by the appointment of John W. Prugh, former member of the city council, but the appointment did not extend to also cover the office of mayor.

The office of mayor is comparatively unimportant alongside the duties of city commissioner under the provisions of the city charter.

No important business other than routine affairs will be transacted at the Thursday meeting.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LXXVIII

What Michael intended to say to Lilah wasn't uttered. Somehow in a moment it all dawned upon him. He got a glimmer of understanding about her reason for not wanting guests. It was because she loved him, he decided, and wanted to be alone with him. She wanted the courtship to go on....

He wanted to make her know that he understood, but didn't know how to go about it. He would bungle what he wanted to say, he knew, and make his offense worse.

"If only I understood her just a little," he thought. "And I imagined that I understood all women."

He was most devoted in his attentions in the next few days, and while she knew that his romantic mood was affected, she enjoyed it, and let him think that she didn't know. Already she was beginning to play the hypocritical role into which most wives are forced.

Michael went back to work on Monday and plunged into work with such a zest as he had not known for a long time. Now he was spurred by good resolutions. He even had in mind a plan to make himself so valuable that he would be elected president of the firm, and thus achieve his mother's hopes. He had never before cared about being president.

"I have the chest," Michael's telephone message electrified Lilah.

"You have! When are you coming home?"

"Drive down and get me."

"I'll be there in ten minutes."

She was at the office in twenty-five minutes, which was about as fast as she could have made it.

The chest was smaller than her imagination had told her it would be.

"Don't open it until we get home," he said.

"I wasn't going to open it in the car," she said annoyed.

"I'll stay downstairs and let you open it alone," he announced, as they entered the door of Menlow House.

She ran up the stairs with it clasped before her. He was not excited about the contents of the chest, and he read in a magazine while he waited for her. He was destined to get a surprise.

When Lilah called him upstairs, ten minutes later, she held up a letter and a small package. With quivering hands he read the note, which gave him the feeling of speaking with the dead:

"My Dear Daughter-in-law: I can imagine the kind of girl my son will marry, and I believe that you will find the contents of this chest useful."

"All of my married life I was a slave to my husband's purse. It wasn't that he was stingy, but that it never occurred to him that wives like to have a little money now and then that is absolutely their own, for which there need not be an accounting."

"Do as you will with these bonds. If placed in the care of a trust company, they will net you sufficient income to indulge in all of those little foibles that mean so much to a woman."

"With my love, 'Michael's Mother.'"

He put down the letter with moist eyes.

That was just like her. (To be continued.)

SIX MURDERED IN TWIN TRAGEDIES IN DIFFERENT CITIES

Husbands Slay Wives and Daughters in Each Case

Indianapolis, Ind., June 24.—Police last night found three persons dead at 236 East McCarty Street. The dead:

William Carpenter, 55 years old.
Mrs. Ada Carpenter, 55, wife of William Carpenter.

Mrs. Grace McDonough, 35, daughter of Mrs. Carpenter.

Police said evidence indicated Carpenter shot his wife and step-daughter and then turned the revolver upon himself.

Mark, 8, and Helen, 10, children of Mrs. McDonough, were playing in the back yard at the time of the tragedy. Mrs. Carpenter staggered from the front door of the home and called to her grandson and Ray Caverder, who was working across the street, to call police.

Before the police arrived and before she could tell of the shooting, Mrs. Carpenter died. She was shot in her right side.

Carpenter was found lying in the front room by the piano, with a bullet hole in his chin and head. His stepdaughter was found slumped in a chair in the dining room, with a wound in her head. The weapon contained five empty shells when found.

Neighbors were at a loss to give a motive. Carpenter had been in ill health, they said. Mrs. McDonough, a widow, and her two children came to her mother's home a few days ago from Detroit.

Pittsburgh, Penn., June 24.—Crazed over his inability to find work Levi Sterner, coal miner, today killed his wife and his eleven-month-old daughter and then shot himself to death at the home of his parents in West Newton, near here.

Mrs. Sterner was nursing the babe at the time of the shooting, the bullet which killed her passing through her body and lodging in the child's brain. A second shot was fired into the child's head before Sterner turned the gun upon himself.

Returning home last night, after a futile search for work, relatives told police that Sterner appeared to be unusually despondent. The family was aroused early today by shots in the room occupied by Sterner and his wife. Mrs. Sterner was found dead and the husband and babe died a short time later.

SCIONS OF WEALTH FOUND ON FARMS

Toledo, O., June 24.—Warren Harwood, 14, son of Frank Harwood, advertising manager of the American Tobacco Company, and Eugene Smith, 14, son of William Smith, of the Toledo News-Bee, were found after having been missing since June 14. Both are sons of wealthy parents.

According to the lads, they left home on a hike to "see the world." They finally landed on the adjoining farms of Harry Beck and Eugene Smith, near Tiffin, O., and had been working there for two days when the farmers, attracted by stories in Ohio papers offering a reward of $5,000 for word of the missing boys, wired Harwood in Toledo.

Harwood arrived at Tiffin and brought both boys here. They left yesterday aboard a New York bound train.

PUBLIC FORGETTING DISABLED VETERANS SPEAKER DECLARES

Enthusiasm Cooled He Says
—24,000 Died Since
Armistice

Omaha, Neb., June 24.—Public enthusiasm toward the veterans of the World War has perceptibly cooled since the armistice, Thomas Kirby, legislative agent of the Disabled American Veterans, charged here today at the annual meeting of the organization.

This feeling, he said, has not been limited to any class or any section, but has spread from coast to coast and from border to border.

Kirby produced figures showing that 9,280 Americans were killed and 205,690 were wounded in action in the World War.

"While these are the figures of war, the statistics of peace are most impressive, since during the last 12 months 4,212 former service men have died from war disabilities, bringing up the total to more than 24,000 who, since the armistice, have answered the last roll call," Kirby said.

"This means that approximately half as many have died from service scars as were killed on the field of battle," Kirby asserted that unscrupulous promoters are "prowling around the country, raising funds from well-meaning citizens who have felt that they were contributing to the relief of men wounded in the great war."

Much of this money only enriched the men who thus sought to prey against the interests of the veterans, he said.

FLOODS SEVERE

Sydney, N. S. W., June 24.—Nearly half the inhabitants of Forbes, a small Australian town 300 miles west of here, were homeless today, as the result of floods which swept the place. Dispatches said that 1,500 were driven from their homes by high water.

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE INCREASING FAST STEEL OFFICIAL TELLS CONVENTION

James A. Farrell Sounds Optimistic Note at Trade Meeting—Diversified Commerce and Rejuvenated Europe Aiding Exports.

Seattle, Wash., June 24.—The foreign trade of the United States has grown to enormous proportions and promises to exceed the record mark of $3,200,000,000 made last year, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, told delegates from all over the world assembled here today at the opening of the National Foreign Trade Convention.

In a keynote speech on "The Foreign Trade Outlook," he declared that there has been a distinct improvement in European industry, and predicted a period of great prosperity for American manufacturers.

"The foreign trade of the United States, whether considered in terms of value or of volume, has grown to substantial proportions," Farrell said. "The aggregate value of our exports and imports for the calendar year 1924 was more than $8,200,000,000, a sum the significance of which, even after war-time experience with large figures is difficult to appraise. The volume of this colossal foreign trade was more than 93,160,000 tons of 2,240 pounds.

There is nothing like this foreign trade of last year in the history of the United States. It surpassed all records in volume; but this year gives promise of exceeding it.

"There are several considerations which seem to sustain this belief," Farrell said. "Before the war a small number of items comprised the great bulk of exports. Twenty different kinds of commodities then furnished approximately 90 per cent of our sales to foreign countries. In 1924, however the first hundred items in our list of exports constituted only 87.75 per cent of the total. Of these one hundred items, 72 contributed less than 1 per cent each.

"This widely diversified commerce is shared by a much larger number of firms than before 1914. The number of traders of all nationalities in competitive markets has decreased since the abnormal activity which followed the war, but there is today no market where standard American manufacturers are not to be found.

The United States has the productive capacity to maintain a considerably larger overseas commerce than it now enjoys, Farrell asserted. This he declared, was one of the chief factors influencing Americans toward foreign trade.

"If we are to have our productive

COOL WEATHER MAY DISAPPOINT GIRLS AT COURT CEREMONY

"Debs" To Be Presented To
Royalty Will Cover Gowns
With Fur Coats

London, June 24.—A temperature of sixty degrees and a general cool snap which England is weathering, brought consternation today to American girls and women and English debutantes, who are to be presented at court tomorrow night to King George and Queen Mary.

Thousands of dollars worth of summer gowns made especially for the occasion will be covered by fur wraps during the long two hour wait outside Buckingham palace. This will make it impossible for the usual admiring throngs of envious shopgirls to see this year the wonderful display of gowns.

The American girls and women to be introduced by Ambassador Houghton will be:

Miss Jean Elizabeth Baldwin, New Jersey; Miss Violet Burd Grubb, Burlington, N. J.; Miss Rosalie Evans, New York; Mrs. Cass Gilbert, New York and Ridgfield, Conn.; Mrs. H. A. Murray, Boston; Miss Florence Pratt, New York; Miss Helen Sheldon, London; Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell, New York and Washington; Miss Annie Laurie Warmack, St. Louis.

REQUEST WARSHIPS FOR PROTECTION OF NATIONALS MENACED

U. S. Sailors Man Refugee
Steamer—Ship Sent
By Portugal

Hong Kong, June 24.—Two hundred Chinese were reported slain in the fighting off Sham-keen, the artificial island which forms the foreign settlement at Canton, according to advices here today.

British and French marines opened fire with machine guns when Chinese students, workers and soldiers parading on the Bund, fired on the island. The steamer Honan, bringing six hundred refugees from Shamen was expected to arrive at Hong Kong this afternoon. Bluejackets from the U. S. S. Ashville are manning the steamer, which was pressed into service at Canton to carry whites out of the danger sectors.

Fighting was reported to have broken out at several places in Canton today, after the bloody encounter between the paraders and marine guards of Shamen. Two of the foreign colony were killed—G. O. Pasquier, a French merchant and Arthur Edwards, a British customs official. Three foreigners were wounded.

Lisbon, June 24.—Measures looking to the safety of the Portuguese community at Macao, China, to which the general strikes of Shanghai, Canton, and Hong Kong have spread, were under way today.

The ministerial council approved the sending of the cruiser Carval Hoarajou to protect Portuguese interests.

Amoy China, June 24.—American, British and Japanese consuls at this important port today requested their governments to send warships to protect their nationals, endangered by the spread of the general strike affecting other large cities of south China.

Foreign women and children were preparing to evacuate the city. One American gunboat stationed here has left for Canton, where a violent clash was reported today.

CHAMBERLAIN WILL DEFEND SECURITY PACT IN COMMONS

Minister To Face Swarm of Political
Bees From Labor And
Liberals

London, June 24.—Austen Chamberlain, British minister of foreign affairs, will face a swarm of political bees when he speaks in the house of commons tonight in defense of the security pact.

A combination of labor and liberal members plan to demand knowing why Britain should guarantee to protect France's western frontier from enemy attack.

Keen hostility to the pact will come to light when opposition members debate, it was predicted. Members were said to be determined to learn that verbal agreements were entered into by Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Briand of France. It is likely Chamberlain will have to put these verbal agreements in writing, or he may have to revoke them.

Meanwhile, laborite members are opposing a vote of censure for the government due to the increase in unemployment. The coal crisis has developed political tension and the possibility of a strike has fanned the fires of political discontent.

Parliamentary circles candidly admitted "the Baldwin government is facing a crisis."

MURDER PROBE STARTS WITH FINDING OF NUDE CHAIN BOUND BODY IN OHIO RIVER

Cincinnati, June 24.—The tragic ending of an automobile ride is believed to have been disclosed with the finding yesterday of the nude body of a beautiful young woman in the Ohio River near the Atlantic-Pacific Highway, just below Utopia, Clermont County.

Two automobile chains were found tightly around the woman's neck.

According to Dr. A. C. Christopher, Milford, Clermont County Coroner, the body of the woman had not been in the river more than two or three days. Dr. Christopher said the woman was about 25 years old. She was five feet, seven inches tall and weighed approximately 140 pounds. She had dark brown bobbed hair, a full face, large bust, broad hips and small hands and feet. Her left upper incisor was missing, the coroner said.

Belief that the woman met her death at the conclusion of an automobile ride was strengthened by reports that a woman answering the description of the river victim was seen in Utopia Sunday afternoon in company with a man. The woman seen in Utopia wore a black hat, a yellow

EMERGENCY FLEET CORPORATION GETS CONTROL OF SHIPS

Merchant Vessels Will Still Be
Operated By Shipping
Board However

Washington, June 24.—The United States emergency fleet corporation today was vested with complete administrative control of the government's merchant ships. The U. S. shipping board will continue to operate, but largely as a regulatory body in giving formal approval to the actions of the fleet corporation.

The change thus effected is in accordance with the suggestion of President Coolidge for the reorganization of the merchant marine under the direction of Admiral Leigh Palmer, president of the fleet corporation.

Under the new operating plan, all ship sales will be handled solely by the fleet corporation and after bids are received and action taken upon them, the shipping board will have an opportunity to approve or reject the contracts.

The shipping board will be unable, under the present merchant marine act, to divest itself of any of the powers conferred by congress but will so far as it is possible, leave the management and operation of the merchant fleet to the fleet corporation.

When the president's suggestion for this radical change of policy was first made it met with some opposition among members of the board, but his insistence finally caused the board to agree.

The president's action was taken following the visit of Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board to Detroit to offer 400 or more of the government's surplus ships to Henry Ford. Agreement has been reached by the shipping board as to the disposition now and these will be advertised for sale immediately by the fleet corporation.

The jury took the case at 11:20 yesterday and continued to ballot until ten o'clock last night. Six men and six women constitute the panel.

Cleveland, O., June 24.—Reported to stand ten for acquittal and two for conviction, the jury determining the fate of Josiah Kirby, former president of the Cleveland Discount Company, on trial for the alleged larceny of 42 shares of preferred stock of the concern from George L. Fix, of Cleveland, resumed deliberations at 9 o'clock this morning.

The jury took the case at 11:20 yesterday and continued to ballot until ten o'clock last night. Six men and six women constitute the panel.

WILBUR MAY ORDER NAVAL PLANES AND FLYERS TO RETURN

Failure To Use Navy Radio
Equipment May Wreck
Trip

Portland, Me., June 24.—The Donald B. MacMillan Arctic expedition, now enroute to the far north, may be called off at the very portals of the frozen Arctic regions through an unexpected move on the part of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

The radio equipment of the MacMillan expedition is the cause of the controversy.

On orders of the secretary, the destroyer Putnam is speeding northward to Sydney N. S. today to overtake the MacMillan expedition anchored there. The destroyer had aboard a large quantity of naval radio equipment from the dismantled U. S. S. Florida.

Commander MacMillan flatly refused to accept navy radio equipment when it was delivered at Wiscasset, Maine last week.

The entire controversy, which threatens to upset the greatest scientific expedition sent into the Arctic by America, centers about the relative value of high and low wave length radio sending and receiving apparatus.

Unless Commander MacMillan is willing to substitute his present wireless equipment for that of the navy, Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd, in charge of navy amphibian planes with the expedition and all navy personnel aboard the Bowdoin and Peary are ordered to return immediately to the United States.

Without the navy planes and the navy flyers this expedition as planned by MacMillan and his associates would be helpless and should the Wilbur order stand there is every possibility that the expedition will be called off.

MacMillan had left the naval wireless equipment piled up on the wharf at Wiscasset when the Bowdoin and Peary sailed.

Soon after his return from his last expedition to the Arctic, Commander MacMillan announced that in the future he would use only low wave length radio equipment.

These sets are practically impervious to static which is extremely bad near the pole. On his last expedition the MacMillan party had standard navy equipment and as a result were out of communication with the outside world for weeks at a time.

Second to MacMillan in command of the Arctic expedition is Commander E. F. MacDonald, Chicago, multimillionaire and interested in a radio corporation of Chicago. This radio company worked out the best standards for amateur manufacture of low wave length radio sets. In tests these amateur sets, during midday could communicate with Europe. These low wave sets have never been manufactured commercially, it is understood.

Commander MacMillan and Commander MacDonald regarded the low wave sets as ideal for work in the Arctic and equipped their ships and the airplanes with them.

The navy department ordered the U. S. S. Florida's equipment sent to Wiscasset. Before the sailing of the expedition on Saturday and while the equipment was on the wharf, naval officials failed to deliver to Lieutenant Commander Byrd a sizzling message from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur ordering him either to install the naval radio instruments in the three seaplanes or return to Washington. For failure to see that this message reached Byrd, Rear Admiral Os Stegaur at Boston navy yard has been severely taken to task by Secretary Wilbur, it became known today.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur bases his strenuous objections to the low wave length radio equipment on the grounds of insecurity for the ships, planes and entire personnel. It is stated, especially the planes in getting compass bearings.

Only Beating Will Dislodge It!

In every rug there is dirt which only beating will dislodge. This you can easily prove . . .

The heavy, sandy, sharp-edged grit which is carried in from the street on soles of shoes and scuffed off in walking, soon settles to the very bottom of the nap.

Sweeping will not dislodge this dirt, nor will air-suction alone. It is embedded! It must be shaken, vibrated loose, and only beating will do this. Prove it now!

There is no better way to convince yourself that your present cleaning methods are inadequate, than by making this test.

There is no better way to prove that you need a Hoover, for in addition to sweeping and air-cleaning, The Hoover beats.

*Make this test right now! Turn over a corner of a rug; with the handle of an ordinary table-knife, or something of equal weight, give the under or warp side 15 to 25 sharp taps, and watch the dirt dance out from the nap depths onto a piece of paper; feel the destructive character of this grit. This is the dirt only beating will dislodge.

Correct use of The Hoover causes this embedded dirt to be vibrated to the surface by the rapid, gentle beating of the Hoover brush, as powerful suction lifts the rug from the floor, and draws all the dirt into the dust-tight bag. Phone us today. Let us show you The Hoover in your own home.

MARRIAGE RITUAL CHANGES PLANNED BY EPISCOPALIANS

New York, June 24—The Fourth Report of the Joint Commission on Prayer Book Revision of the Episcopal Church, which has just been issued, recommends final action by the General Convention of the Church, meeting in New Orleans October 7-23, on the proposal to delete the word "obey" from its marriage service, as well as to strike out the frequently Pickwickian phrase in which the bridegroom endows the bride with all his "worldly goods."

The report also recommends that the proposed shortened form of the Ten Commandments for optional use by the clergy shall finally be approved by the Supreme Court of the Church as well as the elimination from the Book of Common Prayer of the inhibition of the unbaptized, excommunicate and suicides from the rite of the burial service.

Numerous other changes in the Book of Common Prayer, but largely in the nature of Modernized phraseology and transposition, will also be submitted to this Forty-eighth Tenth General Convention of the Joint Commission, whose report is made public in anticipation of that gathering.

All of these proposed changes were approved after extended debate at the Episcopal General Convention which met in Portland, Oregon, in September, 1922. Church law provides, however, that amendments to the Book of Common Prayer shall be approved by two successive General Conventions. The fight for these reforms must be made all over again, therefore at the forthcoming New Orleans meeting.

PROMOTERS EXPLOIT PRESIDENT TO GAIN PERSONAL RETURNS

Washington, June 24.—"Stand aside and let the Blank party pass in!"

The scene is the White House Executive offices almost any day at noon, when hundreds file in to shake hands with President Coolidge. The "Blank party" is a group of organized tourists.

The "Blank" in question is a slender young man who draws down a salary from a big express company that organizes "paid tours" of Washington. He is an almost daily visitor at the White House, standing at the entrance to aid the police in weeding "ringers" out of his party.

Behind or ahead of Mr. Blank are similar parties of tourists, organized in like fashion by other concerns, notably two of the largest railroad companies in the East. Part of the lure that brought them to Washington was an assurance they would be received by the president.

Under existing regulations the White House is powerless to interfere with this commercialization of the presidential office. Any tourist armed with a written request from his Congressman may go through the private quarters of the White House and then shake hands with Mr. Coolidge.

ARRANGE TRIP
Knowing this, concerns that corral graduating classes and social organizations at so much per head and bring them to Washington for a three or four day sight-seeing trip—"all arrangements made"—see to it that the members of their parties write to their Congressmen in advance and get the necessary letters of introduction.

Thus duly accredited, they descend upon the Executive offices these hot days and make Mr. Coolidge shake hands with their tourists—thereby living up to the pretexts: On Wednesday with the temperature at 94, the president greeted 902, of whom 250 comprised a single "Blank party." On Thursday 658 were in line, Mr. Blank again contributing heavily.

And then there is another profitable White House concession—the panorama picture. If an important delegation calling at the Executive offices requests it, the president quite often will consent to pose with them for a picture. In addition to the legitimate news photographers, there is always on hand a commercial photographer with a panorama camera.

The presence of Mr. Coolidge in the picture enhances its value to a point that the photographer usually is able to dispose of one to nearly every member of the group, at from $1.50 to $3.00 per copy. On Thursday the president posed with 1,800 delegates to a convention. The size of the cash sale undoubtedly was tremendous.

Small wonder the President is seeking a haven of quiet in Massachusetts.

MODISH MITZI—The Proper Way To Adjust a Hat

By JAY V. JAY

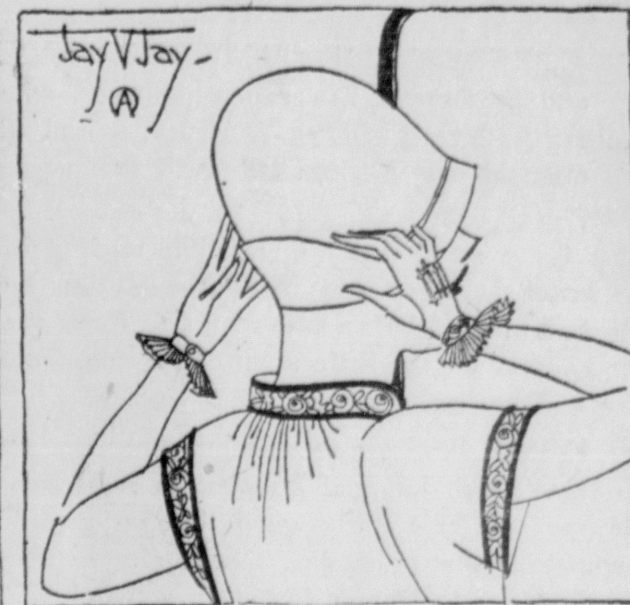

The proper way to adjust a hat is in such fashion as to display one's gloves. Notice, especially, the turned back cuff—a feature of the newest and smartest hand coverings. These gloves are trimmed with apique.

These are also trimmed with apique—colored flowers on a dark background. The cuffs on all gloves now, whether of fabric or leather, are very short and often flare back over the hand.

These are fabric also and are trimmed with a double line of stitching in the color of the glove. Their chief claim to notice, however, is the notched ruffle which is of bright colored print. Colored trimmings are good.

A little embroidered band of flowers makes a bracelet on these gloves and a pleated ruffle frills out most becomingly around a slender wrist. Any such little accentuation of one's good points is surely permissible.

LAWS.

EX-CONGRESSMAN CHARLES L. KNIGHT, Akron and Springfield newspaper publisher, addressing Wittenberg College graduates Thursday, scored what he termed officialdom's attempt to curb the natural rights of citizens.

He referred to the Ohio Bible reading bill, vetoed by Governor Donahey and the anti-evolution bill which has resulted in a trial that is expected to focus the attention of the country on the little town of Dayton, Tenn., where the law will be first tested.

If these laws are not examples of the effort of legislators to adopt imperial gestures in regard to government, they are at least fairly good illustrations of the type of law-making that is flooding this country with statutes which are a burden to enforce if not an actual joke.

Arthur Train, the New York attorney and fiction writer, some time ago prepared an interesting article citing some of the laws that might easily be called ridiculous. His examples, bound to cause mirth, must still be taken more seriously because they represent the profound thought of assemblies of lawmakers elected by the people to provide sensible statutes.

Among them was the law in one Western state that two trains, approaching each other on tracks running at right angles, must both stop and neither must proceed until the other has gone on. Still another was the law that required hotel keepers to change the bed linen after the departure of each guest but making no provision for the unfortunate guest who might be occupying a room for one or more years.

Others of his examples took in the laws that are obsolete but had not at that time been repealed, such as the Los Angeles statute forbidding trolley car motormen from shooting rabbits from the car vestibules and the other western state law which forbade two people taking a bath in the same bathtub at the same time.

Speaking of bath tubs, it might be recalled that they are practically modern, but the introduction of this entirely essential piece of household equipment was the occasion for a burst of "anti" laws that almost prevented the bath tub from becoming popular.

With these conditions in mind, we are now prepared to vote without further investigation, for the legislative candidate who will vote "no" on everything that comes up unless it is a bill designed to wipe off the statute books a number of meaningless and purposeless laws that now clutter up the law books. A legislature pledged to pass no new laws will at least be harmless.

La FOLLETTE.

SENATOR ROBERT M. La FOLLETTE, of Wisconsin, who died in Washington, had many political enemies. But they were the type of enemies who arrayed themselves against him because of his political tenets and not because of personal animosity.

La Follette's political creed may have disagreed with that of the majority, as evidence by his lack of support in the November election last year, but there are none of his enemies who would say that he had not unswerving faith in his ideals, even though those ideals placed him irrevocably with the minority.

There are none to say he was not frank, earnest, open and above-board in his dealings, that he did not fight squarely and straight from the shoulder, nor with the tenacity and fervor of purpose that belied the fact that he knew he was battling for a lost cause.

There was this about Senator La Follette that brought him respect and admiration and the other human qualities that prove, at least after death, that such a life has not been in vain.

WHEAT.

THE American wheat crop will be the shortest this year that it has since the war summer of 1917, reports the federal department of agriculture.

However, the department goes on to say, there will be sufficient wheat for domestic needs, the short crop necessitating the curtailing of exporting this year.

It has been a considerably fortunate thing for Europe that America has been able to raise more wheat than it consumes and if the short crop here will be felt in Europe, the situation may be grave.

UBLY AND LUM

On the road to Pointe Aux Barques,
Sitting in the Thumb,
Is a narrow sign which marks
Roads to Uby and to Lum;
And I think as I go by
I must visit them some day,
Lum is toward the western sky
Uby can't be far away.

Uby has a gurgling name
Like the bubbling of a spring
And I wonder where it came.
Lum is quite another thing,
And I chuckle soft and low

At those arrows, cold and dumb,
Showing me the way to go
On to Uby or to Lum.

Well I know, some summer day,
As that arrow points I'll turn
And go journeying down the way
Where the lights of Uby burn;
For these names are holding me
Like a tune the minstrel's strum,
And I wonder what can be
In the little town of Lum.

So this ditty now I sing
To those towns of Michigan,
Whose quaint names have such a ring
They've entranced this city man.
Lovely Uby, very soon
As the arrow points I'll come,
And before another June
I must surely visit Lum.

Sponge Cake: Break three eggs into a bowl (do not separate) and then beat till light and creamy. Add, gradually, one cup of granulated sugar and continue beating till thick and light colored (this will take five minutes of beating.) Next add four tablespoons of cold water, beat again, and stir in one cup of bread flour which has been previously sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat vigorously for several minutes, flavor with one half teaspoon of vanilla extract, beat again, and turn the batter into a loaf cake pan to bake in a moderate oven from 30 to 40 minutes.

Paris, June 24—Potage genin is one of the best French soups.

Put into a casserole three-fifths pound of white beans which have been previously soaked and water necessary for the soup. ## —to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up sick day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that renews your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchaide White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Today's Talks

SENTIMENT

Recently I witnessed the 500 mile automobile race at Indianapolis. It was a thrilling contest into which great skill, courage, unusual daring and character entered.

A young man by the name of Ralph de Paolo, won. I went around and looked the little car after the race, and strapped securely to the two front springs were two tiny shoes once worn by the driver's 21 month old child!

Sentiment had also won. For exactly 200 laps that car had sped by, and for 150 or better, the father of that pair of shoes had piloted the race.

I was in a beautiful home the other day. Millions of dollars represented the wealth of its owner. There were great gardens, lakes, natural springs, winding walks and trees that burred you in a silent vista of beauty. I was shown through rooms that were the expression of the wood carver's art, exquisite and gorgeous in display. And there was a sun parlor that absorbed the rays of the sun as they touched the beautiful marble that rested in walls, floors and statues.

But all this was far secondary to the few precious trinkets and keepsakes that the mother showed me representing the talent of her daughter when she was a small child. In them was her love.

Money may build palaces but it cannot buy love. Nor can it replace it.

And there is no wealth in this world that has any value at all that does not have beneath it the sentiment of love and unselfishness.

Such wealth is a blessing wherever it is found. It breathes beauty.

I keep thinking about that tiny pair of baby shoes. And I am sure that the winner of that great race would sooner part with the $40,000 he won than he would with that touch of sentiment that inspired him to win. Sentiment is at the core of all the greatness in this world.

TIME LIMIT

There's a magazine run by a wild man up in Chicago which is giving away $500 a week to these "Who can fill in the Last Line," so in order to keep my bosses in good condition with the readers I am going to swing a few limericks at the public and see what happens.

The prizes given will be as follows:

First Prize donated by Mr. McCallister, the Hardware Man.

Second Prize donated by Mr. Kohl, the tire man.

Third Prize donated by Mr. Sayre, the druggist.

My three bosses and Mr. Higgins, (editor) are to be the judges. I don't want any quarrels but you'll notice that I've got the deciding vote on this limerick stunt and what I say is to GO! Here's the limericks:—

There's a man living up in Al-beria,
Who at spitting is some little squirts
He can take a big chew
And his face would turn blue
(fill in)

A man with a cast in his eye
Wore his Adams Apple quite high
And his whiskers ran wild
At his looks you'd have smiled
(fill in)

At Cross Word Puzzles he shone
Though the rest of his head was pure bone
And he ate with his knife
And was bossed by his wife
(fill in)

These three limericks were composed by my three bosses, Mr. McCallister, Mr. Kohl and Doc Sayre, and are what are considered the very finest sort of limericks obtainable.

SECRETS!
The right answers to these limericks are a secret naturally and will not be divulged until you see the answers published in next week's Gazette and Republican.

Yours truly,

Shorky

P. S. I have not had much to do with Mr. Higgins, editor of the Gazette and Republican this week, so there's no news of him in this issue. He'll probably make some double meaning remark to me before the week is out and if he does, I'll tell you in the next issue.

P. S. The million dollar prize money is apple sauce. It's put in the headline to attract attention. The other prizes are real.

LOOP GAMES TO BE RESUMED FRIDAY

The regular schedule in the Saturday Afternoon Industrial League will be resumed Friday at Washington Park, with a bargain bill for fans.

The Tiltons' "33" nine will oppose the Hooven and Allison team in the first half of the twin bill with the leading R. A. Kelly team playing the Pennsylvania Railroaders in the second game.

The four teams in the league are now one full game behind schedule as a result of the postponement of last week's games. The Tiltons have a game with the Kellys and the Pennsylvania nine has a postponed game with the H. and A. team.

These games will be played off at an early date, it is said, to keep abreast with the schedule.

The Kelly nine continues to lead the league with a lead of two full games over the nearest contenders, the Hooven and Allison aggregation.

PRESIDES AT MEET OF FREIGHT AGENTS

R. A. Tull, Xenia, freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Freight Claims Prevention Association held at Lima, O., Tuesday. Mr. Tull, is chairman of this district which extends to Dayton, Chillicothe and Toledo.

Regular business was discussed and plans taken under advisement for reducing the annual claims against the railroad, at the meeting.

The next meeting will be held in Toledo, July 7, it is announced by Mr. Tull.

SUSPECT IS GIVEN HEARING WEDNESDAY

Wilbur Dunn, 30, colored, Cedarville, was given a hearing Wednesday afternoon before J. E. Jones, justice of the peace, on a charge of burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of between $400 and $500 from the Charles M. Ridgway drug store, South Main Street, Cedarville last Friday.

Dunn pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned and denies all implication or connection with the robbery which occurred during the absence of the proprietors.

Investigation for possible clues is being continued by authorities. The money stolen has not been recovered.

GAS BUGGIES-It's Different When He Does It

Not Possible To Classify

By Mack Sauer

A few jottings of the day by Samuel Pepps, Jr.-Out early, a trick out of the ordinary of late, and hired an ill-favored horse, which I would not ride for fear of hurt. To my tailor to try my new suit with red cheeks, the first of the quality that ever I had; and had a fit, nearly to find the bottom of the trousers made big, as the fashion is with the young bloods, and my mind in mighty disorder whether to take them or no, finally leaving orders to make them over.

Troubled whether to grow a mustache, finding that one does become me mightily. Going forth I bought a gift or two for some old cronies and a pair of shoes to ease my bunions which do give me great pain. Voted this day with my watchmaker who long ago promised to set my timepiece in running order, but it not done yet.

Anon walked into the country toward Oldtown with my dog, and there played the fool with a farmer boy; trying to smoke a skunk out of a hole, but after waiting an hour or more, found it had gone out of another hole. And then the two tried the sport of fighting a hornet's nest, I getting stung.

In the evening to the Bijou theatre to see a good plot and fell to talking with a woman, not very handsome, but jolly, who poked fun at a man whom we laughingly referred to as a salesman and who asks for business because he fears he will lose his job if he doesn't get it, saying he must get twice as much as his competitor, very funny.

Thence presently home, meeting Milt McKay on the way and got to discussing city ordinances which have to do with curfews and the like. And so late to bed, too tired for prayers.

HOOT!

A cow stood on the railroad track,
A train came round the bend,
Although she had played safe before,
She got hit in the end.

"I didn't order the advertisement and more than that you didn't insert it as I ordered it," said a voice over the phone recently.

MAY NOT NAME MAYOR AT COMMISSION MEET

While admitting the possibility of the appointment of a mayor for Xenia at the regular City Commission meeting Thursday night at the City Hall, city officials say the action may not be taken at this time.

The mayor vacancy was caused by the resignation of George E. Hudson, who has held the offices of City Commissioner and Mayor.

The vacancy on the commission was immediately filled by the appointment of John W. Prugh, former member of the city council, but the appointment did not extend to also cover the office of mayor.

The office of mayor is comparatively unimportant alongside the duties of city commissioner under the provisions of the city charter.

No important business other than routine affairs will be transacted at the Thursday meeting.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LXXVIII

What Michael intended to say to Lilah wasn't uttered. Somehow in a moment it all dawned upon him. He got a glimmer of understanding about her reason for not wanting guests. It was because she loved him, he decided, and wanted to be alone with him. She wanted the courtship to go on.

He wanted to make her know that he understood, but didn't know how to go about it. He would bungle what he wanted to say, he knew, and make his offense worse.

"If only I understood her just a little," he thought. "And I imagined that I understood all women."

He was most devoted in his attentions in the next few days, and while she knew that his romantic mood was affected, she enjoyed it, and let him think that she didn't know. Already she was beginning to play the hypocritical role into which most wives are forced.

Michael went back to work on Monday and plunged into work with such a zest as he had not known for a long time. Now he was spurred by good resolutions. He even had in mind a plan to make himself so valuable that he would be elected president of the firm, and thus achieve his mother's hopes. He had never before cared about being president.

"I have the chest," Michael's telephone message electrified Lilah.

"You have! When are you coming home?"

"Drive down and get me."

"I'll be there in ten minutes."

She was at the office in twenty-five minutes, which was about as fast as she could have made it.

The chest was smaller than her imagination had told her it would be.

"Don't open it until we get home," he said.

"I wasn't going to open it in the car," she said annoyed.

"I'll stay downstairs and let you open it alone," he announced, as they entered the door of Menlow House.

She ran up the stairs with it clasped before her. He was not excited about the contents of the chest, and he read in a magazine while he waited for her. He was destined to get a surprise.

When Lilah called him upstairs, a ten minutes later, she held up a letter and a small package. With quivering hands he read the note, which gave him the feeling of speaking with the dead:

"My Dear Daughter-in-Law: I can imagine the kind of girl my son will marry, and I believe that you will find the contents of this chest useful."

"All of my married life I was a slave to my husband's purse. It wasn't that he was stingy, but that it never occurred to him that wives like to have a little money now and then that is absolutely their own, for which there need not be an accounting."

"Do as you will with these bonds. If placed in the care of a trust company, they will net you sufficient income to indulge in all of those little foibles that mean so much to a woman."

"With my love, 'Michael's Mother.'"

He put down the letter with moist eyes.

That was just like her. (To be continued.)
